WHITE PLAGUE FIGHT

Dr. Tewksbury Shows Scope of Tuberculosis Hospital.

PATIENTS LAST YEAR, 461

Several Cured and Disease's Progress Checked in Others.

NEW METHODS ARE FAILURES

Superintendent of District Institution Requests That Several Improvements in Place Be Made.

Four hundred and sixty-one patients were treated at the Tuberculosis Hospital of the District of Columbia during the fiscal year that ended June 30 last, the fiscal year number being 9402, as compared with 511 of the year previous, according to the annual report of Dr. W. D. Tewksbury, superintendent of the institution.

This is the biggest increase in attendance since the hospital opened and is due to efforts made to improve conditions and make the institution more attractive, according to the report, which has been submitted to the board of charities.

New Methods Fail.

Two new methods for treating tuberculosis were tried out during the year, but neither proved a success, it is stated. The preparation of tuberculin, discovered by Dr. Wahlen of Paris, was tried in connection with the treatment of twelve patients after the preparation had been tested by the public health and marine hospital service. Its results were unsatisfactory, that the method was abandoned.

Five cases, the report sets forth, were treated with turpentine vapor, formed by a combination of turpentine and ozone. The results obtained were indifferent, four of the cases remained unchanged, while one recorded a slight improvement.

During the year, Dr. Tewksbury states, there were admitted over twenty cases in the incipient stage. Of the number four left the institution cured, three unimproved with the disease arrested, eight in improved condition, and one died and six remained in the institution at the beginning of the present fiscal year.

Those in Advanced Stages.

There were treated seventy-eight patients in the moderately advanced stage of the disease. Of this number, two apparently were cured, it is stated, while twenty-nine were improved and three died, thirty-three remaining in the institution July 1, 1912. In the case of two of these patients the disease was arrested, according to the report, while nine patients remained unimproved.

Three hundred and fifty-one advanced cases were treated. Two hundred and twenty of the number died. There were seventeen cases that recorded improvement and sixty-four that remained unchanged. The disease, in the cases of three patients, was arrested, the report states, while forty-seven remained at the end of the year.

There were 169 white and 149 colored male patients treated, while fifty-eight white and eighty-five colored female patients also were cared for.

Surplus in Appropriation.

Of the appropriation of $48,220.20 allowed the institution, the amount of $522.33 remained at the close of the last fiscal year and has reverted to the Treasury of the United States, the report sets forth.

Among the improvements requested are twenty-five-horsepower high-pressure boilers to replace the present two low-pressure boilers, and a thirty-horsepower high-pressure boiler, to cost about $3,500; a disinfecting plant, to cost about $800; an incinerator for burning infected napkins, to cost about $750; a vacuum cleaner, to cost about $400; and the wages of the four servants employed at the institution, from $190 to $240 each per annum, and a salary for a dietitian whose entire time shall be devoted to making soft diets for patients. The salary of this official, it is recommended, shall be not less than $200 a year.

Dr. Tewksbury also recommends an appropriation of not less than $1,500 for repairs and improvements to buildings. The amount allowed for this purpose last year, which, it is declared, was insufficient, was $750.

THREE DEAD, SIX ILL.

Bark Arrives in Port With Crew Depleted and Demoralized.

BALTIMORE, Md., October 7.—With three of her crew dead and six more down with beriberi, the bark, daylight anchored off quarantine today after a 125-day voyage from Bombay, India. Tonight the ship is being fumigated and quarantine doctors are attending the stricken sailors.

The ship has been at sea for more than four months. There have been days of suffering for her crew of thirty-seven men and one stowaway. The first sickness was a case of smallpox, which Capt. Anderson cured in a few weeks. Before this patient had recovered, however, the Chinese cook fell ill with the beriberi. About the same time when the ship had been out only a short time, others showed unmistakable evidence of the disease in its most malignant form. Fully a dozen men, about one-third of the crew, were ill most of the time. The deaths occurred within a few weeks after the disease was noticed.

The first to die was the cook. The other deaths followed within the next two weeks; the victims were English. The bodies were buried at sea. The deaths are not confident of saving the lives of the six men.

The success of Capt. Anderson in handling the cases was commented upon by the members of the crew who were fortunate enough to escape it.

CARRIERS TO BE INSPECTED.

The marine hospital service, under direction of the Treasury Department, is to begin sanitary inspection of trains and vessels engaged in interstate traffic, and regular reports will be made to the department.

All the medical officers connected with the marine hospital service, when traveling from one part of the country to another on official business, will inspect the sanitary conditions of conveyances and of stations, terminals, wharves, etc.

The step is said by Treasury officials to be the first in the direction of improving traveling conditions and decreasing the germ diseases that go with them. Absence of sanitary precautions on cars, fumigation, ventilation and many other details are to become part of the reports of officials, the chief object being the protection of the health of travelers. Immigrant trains are to receive special attention.

Clay Products of Great Value.

Clay products in the United States last year reached a total valuation of $182,000,000, according to a report published by the geological survey. There were 2,475,000,000 bricks made, valued at $1,000,000,000. Of this New York contributed the largest amount and Illinois was next.

BODY OF ADMIRAL YOUNG

AT REST IN ARLINGTON

Interment With Military Honors at National Cemetery

This Morning.

The body of Rear Admiral Lucien Young, U. S. N., was laid to rest in Arlington this morning with the military honors due his rank. Rev. Father O'Hern of the Catholic University pronounced the last rites. A firing party of soldiers fired the volley over the grave.

Admiral Young's body arrived from New York at Union station at 7 o'clock. It was met by the pallbearers, Rear Admirals Howard, Mason and Beatty and Capt. Winterhalter, Fichtel and Boush. The casket was placed upon a caisson covered with the union jack and the admiral's flag, and at 9:30 o'clock started on the last journey to the national cemetery.

Artillery as Escort.

Four companies of coast artillery formed the escort. The family and pallbearers rode in carriages. Bodybearers, sailors from the navy yard, walked beside the caisson.

The route was down H street to Pennsylvania avenue, and then to Aqueduct and on to Arlington. The Marine Band and the Engineer Band played the march dirges en route.

Dr. John F. Young, a brother of the deceased naval officer, his son, and several other members of the family from Louisville, Ky., attended the obsequies in Washington, coming from Brooklyn.

Funeral Services in New York.

Funeral services for Admiral Young were held yesterday at the Naval Hospital, Brooklyn. Father J. P. Chadwick, formerly chaplain of the Maine, representing the Maine, and Rev. E. J. McDonnell, officiated. There was a guard of honor, made up of one company of marines from the New York navy yard and a company of bluejackets from the North.

The body was then taken to the Pennsylvania station in Manhattan and forwarded to Washington.

GIVE BODIES TO SCIENCE

Two Hundred Physicians Promise to Make Wills to Further Autopsies.

NEW YORK, October 7.—With the purpose of extending the study of disease to eliminate the baneful treatment of incompetent physicians, 200 members of the Associated Physicians of Long Island yesterday went on record as pledging their bodies to science to be used for autopsies for special investigation. This man is following an energetic campaign of pathologists in the association who foresee a great boon to humanity in the education of the general public to the necessity of such work.

Although the law specifies that, to the nearest of kin belongs the refusal of an autopsy, the physicians practically will make wills stating that it is their last wish that their bodies be used for the privilege of making such surgical examination as they see fit.

Efforts were made last spring to bring about a more thorough understanding of the good of autopsies, that this country might advance in medical knowledge with the same rapidity as other countries of Europe, which for years have had a law that gives to the institutions the right to perform autopsies on all persons whose deaths take place in hospitals.

Foreign physicians pursuing a line of examination in mysterious and baffling diseases have been enabled to carry on their work with sufficient material. In this country, physicians say they have been limited in their scope because no one may perform an autopsy without the consent of the next of kin. It has been found here that the public has had a morbid impression of such medical research, and has refused permission in almost every instance. It was to dissipate this view that the members of the Associated Physicians are taking to begin widespread campaign of education. They believe the sentiment against it is archaic and that any step that might result in saving scores of lives of a future generation certainly is the opposite of desecration.

COURT OF APPEALS AT WORK.

Many Attorneys Greet Justices on Beginning of Term.

With the convening of the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia today the entire legal machinery of the District is in operation. About forty attorneys were present to greet the morning to greet Chief Justice Seth Shepard and Associate Justices Charles H. Robb and Josiah A. Van Orsdel. A number of formal motions were disposed of and the regular call of the calendar proceeded.

About 120 cases are on the appeal docket this term and the court is expected to be kept quite busy.

The appeal of Samuel Gompers, John Mitchell and Frank Morrison, the labor leaders, from the jail sentences imposed on them by Justice Wright for alleged contempt of court, probably will not reach the appellate tribunal before the January term. The bill of exceptions said to contain more than 600 typewritten pages, has been agreed on between Attorney Jackson H. Ralston, for the laborers, and Attorney J. J. Darlington for the institution conducting the contempt charges. The exceptions are now before Justice Wright for signature.

MUST DECIDE CUSTOMS CASE.

Pay for Night Examination of Baggage Referred to Wickersham.

Whether customs inspectors will be allowed to charge extra for the examination of baggage on incoming steamers has been referred to Attorney General Wickersham for decision.

For a number of months customs inspectors have claimed that for night examinations of baggage they should be given extra pay under the law which permits such extra pay for examination of "cargoes" at night.

The agitation of the matter of baggage caused customs officials of the Treasury to refer the matter to the solicitor of that department. It decided that baggage was "cargo" within the meaning of the law, and that inspectors would have to be paid. Following this decision the matter was referred to the Attorney General for final decision. If such extra charge is allowed the steamship line will have to pay the charge and will in turn assess the passengers.

Senator Heyburn Suffers Relapse.

When about to leave for his home in Idaho, Senator W. B. Heyburn, who has been ill since before the adjournment of Congress, had a relapse, which came at a time when his gradual recovery had been going on for several weeks. Plans for his return to Idaho have been abandoned for the present. Senator Heyburn is confined to his apartment in Stoneleigh Court. His ailment appears to be heart weakness.

Little Stories for Bedtime.

What Boomer the Nighthawk Saw.

By Thornton W. Burgess.

The million little stars looked down and twinkled and twinkled. Beneath them lay the Green Meadows and the Green Forest. They didn't look green now because jolly, round red Mr. Sun had pulled his nightcap on and gone to his bed beneath the Purple Hills, and there wasn't light enough for Nighthawk and the leaves to show their green color.

Over the meadows and along the edge of the forest sailed Boomer the Nighthawk. Sometimes he flew in circles, "hoo, hoo," and then close it with a snap, "chuck," he was happy. He had slept all day, for Boomer likes best to sleep by day and fly by night. The bright light of day hurts his eyes, and he can see better in the starlight than in the daylight. Then at night there are lots and lots of little things flying about, and very few hungry little people to catch them.

So Boomer the Nighthawk was happy. For there was plenty to eat. Every few minutes he would open his great big mouth and then close it with a snap, "chuck," and he would soon have a dinner. Insect to fly about and get into mischief. Really Boomer was helping. Farmer Brown's corn didn't know this. You see, some of these little insects lived on the green things growing in Farmer Brown's garden and would soon have killed the little plants growing there. But Boomer the Nighthawk wasn't thinking of this. He was only thinking of his dinner. This was really his dinner time, you know, and what splendid food it was to fly and catch and eat all time have to be watching out for danger.

By and by he flew away, "way up ever so high in the sky. Then he half closed his wings and coasted down, down so fast that it seemed as if he must surely fall to the ground. But he didn't. Just before he reached the ground he spread his wings and went skimming over the meadow. He didn't know this. You see, he had been so fast that the air rushed through the long, stiff feathers of his wings and made a loud, booming sound, which is the reason he is called Boomer. It startled some of the little birds out of their sleep in the bushes along the edge of the Green Forest, and this made Boomer chuckle, for he thought it great fun.

Once when he came booming down out of the sky he saw something that made him stop his long slide half way. It was something moving in the blackest shadows. Boomer turned and flew right over the black shadows where he could see right down into them. As he looked he saw two figures creeping slowly along. One of them limped and seemed to be having a dreadful time to get along. "It's Granny and Reddy Fox," said Boomer to himself. They were so intent on their own affairs that they hadn't noticed him at all. He opened his mouth to shout to them. Then he closed it again without making a sound. "I'll just wait and see what mischief they are planning now," he thought.

So from up in the sky Boomer the Nighthawk watched Granny and Reddy Fox cross the Green Meadows and climb the hill toward the far-away old pasture. "I wonder what that means?" said Boomer the Nighthawk to himself.

BURIAL OF HEAVYWEIGHT.

Coffin for John Rappelt Was Made to Order.

NEW YORK, October 7.—John Rappelt of 512 10th avenue, who weighed 350 pounds, died Saturday of liver trouble after spending the greater part of his fifty-two years in helping those less fortunate than himself.

Anthony L. Roth, undertaker, found it necessary to build a special coffin, which measures seven feet two inches in length, thirty inches wide and twenty-four inches deep. Mr. Rappelt was six feet two inches in height. The Rappelt apartment door to get the coffin out of the door to get the coffin out of the door. It will be impossible for the eight pallbearers to carry the coffin, weighing 300 pounds, down the narrow stairway to the street. Piano movers will lower the coffin through a saloon on the ground floor to get the coffin out of the door. Two graves had to be bought in Calvary.

Mr. Rappelt was a resident of the West side all his life. He was known by all of the children in the neighborhood, as well as the grown-up folk. His great stature and good nature made friends for him everywhere. He was a member of many fraternal organizations, more than 120 members of which will attend the funeral tomorrow with a band.

Furred Tongue, Bad Taste, Indigestion, Sallow Skin and Miserable Headaches come from a torpid liver and constipated bowels, which cause your stomach to become filled with undigested food, which sours and ferments like garbage in a swill barrel. That's the first step to untold misery—indigestion, foul gases, bad breath, yellow skin, mental fears, everything that is horrible and nauseating. A Cascaret tonight will surely straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box will keep your bowels clear, stomach sweet, liver and bowels regular and make you feel cheerful and bully for months.

Don't forget your children—their little insides need a good, gentle, cleansing, too, occasionally.
